Winners In Advocate Missing Word Contest

Harry Lee Richardson was the winner of the first prize of $25.00 in The Advocate's Missing Word Contest, which has been running for the past thirteen weeks. The page has created much interest and hundreds of answers have been received each week. Young Richardson was fortunate enough to find the correct word in every issue. The second prize of $10.00 was won by Mrs. Tom Greene, while the third prize of $5.00 was won by Miss Elizabeth McCoun. The next ten persons who will receive $1.00 each are:

Mrs. M. A. Thomas,
Albert Jones, Jr.,
Mrs. J. O. Tyler,
Miss Ruby Lee Wyatt,
Miss Louise Smathers,
Mrs. D. C. McGuire,
Harold Greene,
Miss Florence Dragoo,
Miss Virginia King Conroy,
Miss Emily Pleffatt.

Checks for the above named sums have been mailed to each of the successful contestants, and if they fail to receive same promptly they will please notify this office.

The correct missing words were:

First Week—The word "of" in the advertisement of Chenault & O'rear, between the words "life" and "the."

Second Week—The word "car" in the advertisement of Ragan-Gay Motor Co., between the words "motor" and "value."

Third Week—The word "good" in the advertisement of Duty, Nesbitt & Co., between the words "and" and "shirt."

Fourth Week—The word "after" in the advertisement of Chenault & O'rear, between the words "remains" and "price."

Fifth Week—The word "twice" in the advertisement of Madison V. Leach, between the words "and" and "no."

Seventh Week—The word "so" in the advertisement of R. E. Punch & Co., between the words "now" and "much."

Eighth Week—The word "very" in the advertisement of McGuire Bros., between the words "at" and "attractive."

Ninth Week—The word "most" in the advertisement of The Mt. Sterling Advocate, between the words "prices" and "reasonable."

Tenth Week—The word "be" in the advertisement of The Electric Shop, between the words "can't" and "beat."

Eleventh Week—The word "design" in the advertisement of W. A. Sutton & Son, between the words "latest" and "and."

Twelfth Week—The word "your" in the advertisement of Chenault & O'rear, between the words "all" and "cooking."

Thirteenth Week—The word "entire" in the advertisement of Chenault & O'rear, between the words "the" and "meal."

BILL HART AND WIFE PART

William S. Hart, known to movie fans as "Big Bill," hero of many wild west scenes, and his wife, formerly Miss Winifred Westover, have separated and divorce proceedings are in contemplation on the part of the wife, it became known Wednesday.

The separation, it was learned, took place about three months ago when Mrs. Hart left the Hart home in Hollywood and moved to Santa Monica, where she is living with her mother, Mrs. Clyde Westover, while awaiting the coming of a child that is expected in November.

The famous film star, it was authoritatively stated, has submitted to his wife and her attorney a property settlement, which is now under consideration by them. The settlement, it was declared, makes provision not only for Mrs. Hart, but for their unborn child.

Divorce papers are being prepared by Mrs. Hart's attorneys, and it was said Wednesday, may be filed within two or three weeks.

In the event they are not filed, it was said, Mrs. Hart may bring an action against Hart's sister, Mary, for alienation of the affections of "Big Bill." Mary Hart is in New York at present on business, the nature of which is not disclosed.

In case, as indicated, divorce proceedings are brought by Mrs. Hart, extreme cruelty will be charged, according to information obtained Wednesday.

Will Hays, "czar of the movies," has been acting as an intercessary, and while in Los Angeles recently attempted, it was said, to bring about a reconciliation. Failing in that, he turned his efforts to trying to effect an amicable agreement of separation and is still working along that line, with the result in doubt.

ANOTHER BIG PICTURE AT TABB MONDAY AND TUESDAY

Although "Reported Missing" played to poor business on the two days at the Tabb last week, Mr. Small announces in this issue the return of Mae Murray in "Fascination" at the Tabb Monday and Tuesday nights.

Fascination is playing to turn-away business in the cities. It is said to be the finest, most lavish with the elaborate display of costly, stunning gowns of any picture that this popular star has appeared in. The many complimentary press notices that this picture and star are receiving should make Miss Murray new friends and the theaters that are fortunate to show her picture make new picture fans.

S. S. Convention Proves Interesting

The County Sunday School Convention of Christian churches in Montgomery county was held at the Christian church in this city Tuesday and Wednesday. The sessions were presided over by the county president, Mr. John Greenwade, in his usual excellent manner.

Tuesday's sessions related to the Sunday School and a delightful program was given, with addresses by Elder Clyde Darsie, of Cynthiana; Elder F. M. Tindler, of North Middletown; Elder Lynn Platt, pastor of the Somerset church; C. T. Eals, of Cynthiana; George Moore, of Louisville, a state Sunday School worker, and a number of local speakers and teachers.

Tuesday evening an inspiring meeting was held at which excellent addresses were made by Elder Platt and Mr. Moore. Wednesday morning the sessions related to the work of the church and many interesting talks were given. Wednesday afternoon the Woman's Missionary Society had charge of the program, under the supervision of Miss Emma Coons and an enjoyable program was given, the main address being given by Mrs. Ida Withers Harrison, of Lexington, one of the leaders in the missionary movement in the state. The convention was one of the best ever held in the county. The ladies of the Christian church served lunch in the church parlors at the noon hour each day. The convention will be held in 1923 at the Somerset church. Much interest was manifested in the convention and a deeper and more consecrated service was promised by every worker. The officers elected were: W. Hoffman Wood, president; pastor of the church, first vice president; Miss Sally Clay, second vice president; Miss Emma Coons, third vice president; Mrs. Lawrence Kratzer, secretary.

"A WOMAN OF NO IMPORTANCE"

In the so-called legitimate branch of the amusement business it is the practice to speak of certain outstanding events as seasons. There's the opera season in New York and in various others of the larger cities of the country. Three or four big cities have seasons by the Folies company, by the Hippodrome company, when on tour, and so on.

The customs of the "legit" are often copied by the motion picture people, but this particular one hasn't yet become general. The Tabby Theatre, however, might be forgiven for announcing a "season" in conjunction with the "A Woman of No Importance" engagement. "A Woman of No Importance" is from the celebrated play of the same name by Oscar Wilde, distinguished English playwright, and the presentation of any of his works anywhere in any form is sufficiently important to attract unusual attention.

"A Woman of No Importance" is one of those famous stories of modern customs and manners for which Milde is famous. It recites a lot of truths about people in the various stations of life which are not always pleasant—and does it in a way that stirs one's liver. The situation have required little or no invention and might have been unearthed in any community where men and women love and live.

State Road Work Hit By Embargoes

Road construction work in Kentucky will virtually be at a standstill within the next thirty days, according to the statement of Joe S. Boggs, state road commissioner, after conferring Wednesday with H. M. Priest, interstate commerce commission representative on the district committee of the federal coal and car distribution board.

Mr. Boggs' conference with the commission agent was with the view to ascertaining what car service could be obtained for road material carrying purposes, and he was informed of the absolute embargo against the use of open top cars for transporting highway material.

This means, according to Mr. Boggs, that materials can be obtained only for the purpose of completing highly essential work or in emergency situations, such as involving bridges that are incomplete, or roads on which contracts have practically been filled.

A total of 350 miles of roads are now under construction in the state of Kentucky, Mr. Boggs reported. Practically all of this work will have to be suspended, or will be interfered with to some extent, by the rail situation.

The work being done on the Bardstown road in the Fern creek vicinity,

Mr. Boggs said, will not be hampered, because the materials being used there are transported by motor truck. Maintenance work as well as new construction, however, will be interfered with in practically all parts of the state.

CAFETERIAS WILL OPEN FOR THOUSANDS OF HOGS

During the coming month thousands of Kentucky hogs that are to be fattened for fall markets will be turned into fields of corn or corn and soybeans grown together to "serve themselves" on the growing crops. Hogging off, as this process is commonly known among farmers, has become so popular as an economical method of producing pork in the state that three times as much corn and soybeans will be hogged down this year as was the case last year, according to Ralph Keeney, crops extension specialist of the College of Agriculture. The majority of farmers who obtained the top price for the fat hogs last year started the hogging off process on their farms about August 15, he said.

Several distinct advantages are pointed out for this method of pork production. It is more economical in that it involves less labor in feeding and harvesting and in addition it results in the greatest returns from manure and crop residues. The hogs also are kept in a more healthy environment while ranging through the field and therefore can be expected to make more rapid gains. Statistics compiled during the last 25 years show that hogs fattened in this way also usually reach the market stage ahead of the drop in hog prices which generally comes in October.

Many farmers get their hogs on an early market by hogging off corn alone. High prices for farm labor have resulted in this method becoming a common practice in view of the fact that the man with feeder hogs cannot afford to shuck corn. Soybeans and corn grown in the same row are considered a better hogging-off feed than corn alone since the protein content of the beans balances the fat-producing elements of the corn. This combination is said to produce from 150 to 200 pounds of pork more an acre than is produced by corn alone with a cost of only 25 cents more an acre for bean seed, while the yield of corn is reduced only about three bushels an acre. A few farmers provide a balanced ration for their fattening hogs by turning them on corn and feeding tankage in a self-feeder. Soybeans and corn in the same row are ready for hogging off when the beans enter the "dough" stage and the corn is hardening or in the "glaze" stage.

GREEN OLIVE SAUSAGE ROLLS

These little homemade rolls are attractive, unusual and delicious; just the things for a picnic lunch novelty.

Put two cups each of any two meats desired through food chopper (cold fowl and tongue or ham and cold roast veal are excellent). Add a teaspoonful powdered sweet herbs, one-half teaspoonful salt, one-quarter teaspoonful paprika and a cup chopped Spanish green olives. Make either a pie crust or a baking powder dough. Put three tablespoonsful of the meat mixture well rolled together on a round of the pastry. Roll and pinch ends firmly together. Bake one-half hour in hot oven.

When we eat candy we are taking in food at a fearful rate. A chocolate caramel or a square inch of fudge contains almost 100 calories or food units.

People whose lives are more or less inactive do not require nearly as many food units to keep them fit as people who do hard manual labor all day and use up body tissue at a high rate.

Tea chocolate caramels during the day are just the same as an extra meal. A person who eats that much should skip a meal to give the stomach a chance to catch up.

If you eat candy instead of the third meal you are taking your food in too concentrated a form and it is irritating to the stomach. Candy furthermore does not contain vitamins and minerals which are essential to good health.

If you must eat candy, the best time to eat it is at the end of a meal when the stomach contains other food, but even then it should be followed by fruit so that the harmful effect of the candy on the teeth may be decreased. To the healthy it is well to take your candy or your sugar in moderation and well diluted.

FIRST FALL PIGS TO BE HERE SOON

Early arrivals in Kentucky's annual fall pig crop of about 300,000 animals will be here within the next few weeks, animal husbandry specialists at the "College of Agriculture" say. The fall farrowing season will continue until about the first of December with the bulk of the young workers arriving during September and October.

"Overfeeding the brood sow is one of the important points that the farmers have to guard against at this time of the year," E. J. Wilford, one of the specialists, pointed out. "Thousands of newly born pigs are thrown off feed because their mothers received an excess of feed which in turn produced a flow of milk that was too abundant for the young animals. To overcome this condition, feeders on the college farm practice a system of limiting feeding for some time after farrowing. All feed is withheld from the sow on the day she farrows and nothing but water allowed her. For the next two or three days she is given a light allowance of shipstuffs or middlings in the form of a thin slop. On the fifth day after farrowing, corn meal is introduced into the ration which then consists of about one pound of corn meal, four pounds of shipstuffs and one-fifth of a pound of tankage. The feeds are gradually increased until at the end of ten days the ration being fed is made up of three pounds of shipstuffs, three pounds of corn meal and a half pound of tankage.

"At the end of 30 days, the feed is composed of seven pounds of corn meal, five pounds of shipstuffs or middlings and one pound of tankage. This is considered full feed while the amount which is fed to the sow is determined by her size, the number of pigs she is suckling and her ability to produce milk. Generally, when a sow is on full feed she should be receiving an average of about four per cent of her live weight in grain each day. This is fed in the form of a thin slop. If skim milk is available it is well to add a limited amount to this to the ration. Some sows have demonstrated that they are capable of producing little milk and begin to fatten as soon as the feed is increased. In cases of this kind it is necessary to reduce the amount of feed which is given to the sow each day."

SPRAYING BOOSTS YIELD OF LATE CROP POTATOES

Farmers and gardeners who are growing late potatoes will profit by being on guard for insect pests at this time of the year, according to A. J. Olney, potato specialist at the Kentucky Agricultural Experiment Station. Plant lice were highly destructive to first crop potatoes this year, while leaf hoppers, another common insect pest of the crop, have been more abundant during the last two or three years than ever before, he said. In tests during recent years on the station farm, sprayed potatoes have yielded as much as one-third more than those that were left unsprayed, it was pointed out.

"As soon as the plants are six inches high they should be sprayed with a combination spray made by mixing standard Bordeaux mixture and arsenate of lead at the rate of three pounds of lead powder for each 50 gallons of Bordeaux. This spray will control Colorado potato beetles, the ordinary flea beetles and early blight. It may be necessary to repeat the application of this spray as many as from four to six times at intervals of ten days to two weeks. If plant lice or leaf hoppers appear on the plants, it will be necessary to add nicotine sulphate to the spray, this material being added at the rate of a half pint to 50 gallons of Bordeaux.

"Special care is necessary if the spraying is to accomplish the desired results. Plant lice must be hit by this spray in order to be killed, while the control of leaf hoppers depends upon spraying them while they are young."

WILL WARREN END A WILLIAM?

Republicans in the national capital prominent in shaping the political destinies of those who are and those who hope to be, are causing some amusement among the standpatters by openly discussing in hotel corridors matters that heretofore have been whispered only behind closed doors. The thought is expressed that there is no party loyalty in permitting Republicans to wander in a Fool's Paradise, that the people ought to be advised of the situation so that their reaction may be felt in Washington and some rapid changes made that may prevent President Harding from following further in the footsteps of President Taft.

"The two administrations are practically alike," says one leader. "Taft and his Ballinger and Harding and his Daugherty."

"The refusal of the president to heed public protest in the matter of appointments, equals in every particular the calm smiling defiance of Taft," says another, pointing to the appointment and retention of E. Mont Reilly as governor of Porto Rico as a striking example of political unwise.

The consensus of opinion among senate Republican leaders seems to be that the president moves along popular lines only when he is compelled to move. Irritation is felt because of his bitter fight against the farm bloc, reluctantly approved when there was no other course left open.

All of these conditions might have gone by with passive objection on the part of Republican leaders were it not for the danger signals hoisted in Iowa, North Dakota, in Indiana and in Pinchot's victory in Pennsylvania. These writing on the political walls, however, have spread alarm to a point where the presidential future and the party future are being placed in the scale for weighing purposes. They have no desire to see Warren end as did William, the victim of a great progressive wave created out of administrative blunders, but alarm is felt, and it is being openly discussed with a frankness that is startling, but with the hope of saving the president from unconscious political injury.

OPERATORS, LIKE ORATORS, MUST HAVE TRAINED VOICES

Good grammar is as desirable in speech as in business and social correspondence. And clear enunciation emphasizes the use of good grammar. We may pick our words with the greatest care, but the effect is lost if we run them together, or jumble them in our speech.

Distinct speech is a desirable asset, but can be acquired only by practice.

We admire the distinct speech of actors and actresses and of some professional platform speakers. Every word they utter is spoken, not sharply, but clearly and plainly.

While occupying places far removed from the public platform, telephone operators, as a class, are as highly trained in the art of speaking distinctly as the folks of the stage.

When a telephone operator speaks to you over the wire, every word she says is clear and distinct, even if she repeats only the telephone number you have given her. Clearness in speech is an essential qualification for a place at a telephone switch board.

If distinct talking is so important on one end of the wire it must be equally important on the other. It is a fact that more than 90 per cent of "wrong number" calls are due to the slurring and indistinct speech of the telephone user. Calling a telephone number distinctly helps to speed up the telephone service.

Pershing did not say, "Lafayette, we are here." Whittlesey did tell the Germans to "go to hell." Sherman also did say "war is hell." So far as we know, Lincoln wrote his Gettysburg address.

It is said in the South Sea Islands it costs eight spearheads to buy a wife. In this country one spearhead often secures a real fine wife.

One reason why all the male Goulds marry actresses may be that they were early advised to hitch their wagons to stars.

One way to waste midnight oil is to burn it for the purpose of studying a wildcat oil prospectus.

A typical senator is Mr. FreilinghuySEN, of New Jersey, one of the smaller business men being drawn into public life. Son of a country minister, he started as an insurance agent. Nature equipped him with unusual energy and aggressiveness, and those two qualities brought success in writing insurance.

Having the American horror of loneliness, whether social or moral, one finds him always going along with his party. When his set divides he balances between the two factions as long as possible and elects to go with the more numerous.

After he has blustered through some utterance, he will buttonhole you and ask: "Did I make a damn fool of myself? Now, the point I was trying to make clear, etc. Did I get it clear? Or did I seem like a damn fool?"

Less agile-minded than Senator Edge, he watches the motions of his New Jersey colleague as a fascinated bird watches those of a snake or cat. Intellectually he is not at ease, even in the senate.

We are still waiting for Henry Ford to come forth with a 98-cent radio receiving outfit.

Too many people in this vale of tears think they are independent because they are habitually insulting.

Most men have two objects in life.

One is to become rich and the other is to become richer.

VETS' BUREAU THANKS PAPERS

Since the success of the clean-up drive and service census has been largely due to the publicity secured from the newspapers of Kentucky, the Kentucky Disabled ex-Service Men's Board, Frankfort, at its July meeting passed the following resolution thanking the newspapers for co-operation:

Whereas the work of Kentucky Disabled ex-Service Men's Board has been greatly assisted through the state-wide publicity given by, and the complete co-operation of, the newspapers of Kentucky, and

Whereas the clean-up campaign and service census conducted by this board and the American Legion has succeeded in causing hundreds of Kentuckians disabled by their world war service to properly bring their claims before the United States Veterans' Bureau, and

Whereas said clean-up campaign and service census could not have been conducted so successfully without the co-operation of said newspapers,

Now, Therefore, Be it Resolved, That this board at its July meeting goes on record in appreciation of the said co-operation of the Kentucky newspapers, and instructs the secretary to mail a copy of this resolution to each newspaper in Kentucky.—Kentucky Disabled ex-Service Men's Board, by Jackson Morris, chairman; Emmett O'Neal, Margaret L. Duncan and Henry J. Stites, secretary.

A woman's popularity in society depends upon her keeping her complexion good, and a man's upon his remaining single.

WHAT I WOULD DO

It has been aptly said by a man of matured mind, "I would see that I was better informed than the head of my department or the head of the entire business, so that sooner or later, when some perplexing question was under discussion, I would be prepared to volunteer information that would carry with it an intelligent, thoughtful surprise to the man leading a great business, sometimes under clouds and at other times through the sunlight and under all conditions would attract the notice of the man higher up. Such a training gets a fellow somewhere. Such men do not move in flocks. There is an individuality in everyone that counts. To attain to prominence and greatness comes from personal merits."

Edison came into notice not by the diction of another, but by his own efforts. All men should make Edison his ideal, make his own preparations, have a reason for convictions and stand for them, if they would attain to greatness. For every boss there is a slave. This is what I would do, and I would not be a slave."

HOPE

We are hoping that before another issue the questions involved between organized labor and capital will have come to an end; that the results will be satisfactory to all concerned, and that the settlement will be without revocation. The country is ill at ease and suffering in this section where there is plenty to spare, the business stagnation being felt not alone by the strikers and their employers, but by a general public. The president has powers equal to equitable adjustment, but we doubt the presence of sufficient nerve.

MAKE THIS A PART OF YOUR LIFE

This suggestion to our minds is worth while to every individual, man or woman, and we give it because we know its practice is a personal and public benefit as well:

"The difference between the clerk who spends all his salary and the clerk who saves part of it is the difference—in ten years—between the owner of a business and the man out of a job."

Turn the lights on and discover which class you are in: turn a leaf and begin anew. Will you do it?

A hopeful disposition and a propensity to meet the ills of life with a brave heart and a courageous and joyful spirit are the truest riches the soul can ever know. He reverse is the greatest curse.

Providence has gone to the wretched, two advantages over the happy in this life—greater felicity in dying and in heaven all that superiority of pleasure which arises from contrasted enjoyment.—Goldsmith.

QUICKLY SAID

We suppose one of the most embarrassing things in the world right now is to be the editor of a Republican newspaper.

What's the difference in a farm bloc and a city block?

According to our understanding as gathered from the Louisville papers, the city administration of that city must think it is a miniature Republican congress.

The striking railroad shop men can't deny the fact that they are getting a good vacation. But it's not at the expense of the railroads.

We'll bet those Maysville ball players ain't been invited to many parties since Saturday and Sunday.

By the way, speaking of baseball, the Essex will be playing .500 after they gather the three games of this week-end.

Messrs. Fields, Cantrill and Langley should be getting pretty well acquainted in Washington. If one of 'em should happen to pass away we hope the correspondents won't forget to mention the fact that he was born and raised in Kentucky.

Our conception of nothing to do is to write things like the above paragraphs.

WEATHER AND CROPS

Summary of weather and crop conditions in Kentucky for the week ending Tuesday, August 8:

Temperatures were moderate and favorable for growth and farm work. Good showers in the eastern counties were beneficial locally, but rainfall was light and of little consequence in other districts. In the extreme western counties there has been no rain for two weeks, and crops are needing rain badly, especially on the hilly upland as far east as Daviess county. The state exhibits marked contrasts in crop conditions. Corn and early tobacco are good to excellent in the central and southern counties, where they will mature without further rain; but both crops are deteriorating because of drought in much of the northeastern district, and corn is "firing" in the western dry area. In the northern blue grass section early tobacco is so badly "fired" that it is being cut somewhat prematurely in order to save it. Further rain is needed to cause complete spreading in most of the state. Late tobacco is doing well in the area favored by rain, but in the dry districts, especially the northern burley section, it is poor and uneven. The dry weather was favorable for starting the curing process, also for preventing the spreading of rust. Late potatoes are growing well in the central and southern counties, but need rain in other sections. Conditions were favorable for threshing, which was finished during the week; also for cutting and curing the third crop of alfalfa, now in progress. Pastures and gardens continue good in the more favored central sections, but are practically dried up in the hilly parts of the dry districts. Stock water is reported short in the northern blue grass region. Cowpeas are generally good, but would be benefited by rain.

GOOD NEWS!!

No doubt you've read in the papers that LERMAN BROS. were going to open a new store in Mt. Sterling. We are coming to Mt. Sterling from Cincinnati, with an honorable reputation for business dealing, won by giving people what they want, when they want it, at lower-than-every-day prices.

Instead of opening our new store with music and flowers and free souvenirs and handshaking, we are going to DO THE UNEXPECTED. This is what will happen:

Everybody knows about the railroad strikes—everybody knows about many other strikes that have been going on throughout the country. Well, these strikes haven't helped the manufacturers any. They can't move their goods fast enough—they can't meet their obligations and only one result could happen. STOCKS OF MERCHANDISE began to pile up. Something had to happen.

When we went into the markets to buy our stocks of merchandise for our new Mt. Sterling Store, manufacturers greeted us with open arms. It gave them the OPPORTUNITY TO UNLOAD—it gave us the opportunity to buy brand new goods at big reductions. And this condition will give YOU—the BUYING PUBLIC—the opportunity to

CITY SCHOOL OPENS SEPT. 4

The Mt. Sterling city school will open its fall term on Monday, September 4, and indications are that the enrollment will be the largest in the history of the school. Prof. H. A. Babb report that Miss Helen Baker, a graduate of the University of Cincinnati, has been chosen as head of the home economics department, and Prof. Arthur Johnson, a graduate of Kentucky Wesleyan College, has been selected for the head of the history department. Prof. Johnson will act also as coach for the football and baseball teams. New rooms will be prepared for the home economics department, for science teaching and many new class rooms will be added, the present chapel being changed for that purpose. The playgrounds will be enlarged and cleared. Work on the new building is being pushed and it is thought that it will be completed and ready for occupancy by the first of the coming year.

BIG PURCHASE

R. N. Ratliff, of Winchester, has purchased from parties in Montgomery, Bath and Clark counties an aggregate of $11,500 lambs that average 80 pounds at a price from 10 to 11 cents.

R. N. Ratliff shipped from the Mt. Sterling stockyards 139 85-pound lambs, ranging in price from 10 to 11 cents.

ers on the other squeezing out their lives. The public could have ended the strike in short order. But the public remained indifferent. Warm weather was no time to get excited about a possible coal shortage. The coal barons have not worried. They don't care whether there is a shortage or not. They will arrange their output by fixing prices.

Even today the individual remains apathetic. If every man and woman were to write a letter to our congressman and to our two United States senators, particularly the congressman, asking what steps are being taken to protect his district and demanding that he see that we obtain an adequate supply of coal, something might be done. There are plenty of letters written for free seed. Why not a line on fair priced coal? Let our congress see we are on the job and that we expect it to do what it can to protect the people.

The man who borrows trouble is never asked to pay it back.

SPECIALIZING ON ICE CREAM AND ICES

HE FORGOT BASIS OF VALUES

The New York Times says: "Evidently W. L. George does not devote all his attention to the study of women, which is his specialty. While he was over here he took the time to learn something about our telephone system, and now that he is home again he has been writing about it. He has collected an impressive array of facts and figures, and, like everybody else who has compared the American telephone service with that of Europe, he proclaims the superiority of the former. He fails, however, to see just where the superiority lies, and he goes wrong in his comparison of British and American prices paid by subscribers."

"The differences he found, though in favor of our small subscribers and against our large ones, were but a few dollars a year. That is because Mr. George forgot that what the telephone subscriber buys is not the privilege of calling "central" but that of having communication with other people, and the greater the number of people to whom he can talk at his need or convenience, the more is his telephone worth to him."

He noted that in England there is one telephone for every forty-seven persons, while in the United States there is one for every eight. That in itself, with equal efficiency of service, would make the American telephone six times the more valuable, but it is common knowledge that the American service, though all of us growl about it more or less, is by far the best given anywhere in the world.

That makes it the cheapest in the world, for both large and small subscribers, and refutes the few instances given by Mr. George of lower telephone rates in England than here."

"When lovely woman stoops to folly—And finds too late that men betray—What charm can soothe her melancholy?—What art can wash her guilt away?"

Learned people are not so learned as they would seem, and simple folks are not so stupid as we usually imagine.

COLUMBUS OF TODAY

Amundsen recently sailed from Seattle to become ice locked in the hope that he might drift across the north pole.

What's the use, you wonder. Man has already been to the north pole and there wasn't anything there but a lot of cold weather. It was a lonely place. Why go again?

Columbus was jeered when he sailed against the whole world's disbelief. He set out to find new seas. To his own amazement he found new shores. Even when he returned to tell his tale wise men declared the venture interesting, but what's the use; the new found land was so far away no one would ever go there.

Recently some mountain climbers, seeking to set foot on the "roof of the world," ascended the unexplored altitudes of Mt. Everest. High up in the Himalayas they found vast plateaus, rich in soil with forests and lakes and grasses such as are found in the north tier of American states. These were not little pocket spots in the mountains, but a vast region that would measure out Minnesota and Montana.

But what's the use of it all. We say, we can't get there. Mile high precipices prevent.

The legislature of New York came within two or three votes of refusing to grant the Delaware and Hudson company the right to build a railroad because it would scare the horses. But it was the railroad and not the horse that made possible this great nation of homogeneous people more than three thousand miles long.

They jeered at Fulton's boat. "It moves!" they cried. To their amazement, it moved up river.

When the first steel ship was launched foolish folks went down to see it sink. The crowd saw only the iron hull; they knew iron sinks. The inventor saw the air in the iron hull; he knew the air would float.

The world today is full of out of way places which tomorrow will be as much a part of the busy world as the shores Columbus found.

Aeroplanes will lift us up into the Minnesotas and Montanas of the Himalayas. Rich farms will be there, towns, colleges, cities like Billings and St. Paul.

Radio is an amusing toy. Wonderful, we say. We wisely predict the time when it will carry music from a great operatic center to even the most isolated and humble cabin homes. We talk wisely of its educational powers. These are near enough to be calculable. It is going to carry conversation around the whole world. It is going to print news in the parlor. Radio is going to give all nations one tongue.

Now scientists talk of sending heat waves that will modify inhospitable climates. These heat waves will make possible not merely Montanas but whole Australias where Amundsen is going and where Shackleton has been.

It is a wonderful world we live in. The laboratory is the mighty missionary. And there is many a Columbus serving a vaster future by beating pathways into the pathless regions of today.

HEIRLOOM AS DONATION

Director S. W. McGill, in charge of the Presbyterian movement for Christian education in Kentucky, has received a gift for the cause that he values as highly as any contribution ever made for Christian education, according to his statement. The director has in his Louisville office a little pocket book, old fashioned and worn, evidently more than half a century old. It came to him with a little note attached, but no signature, in the purse were two gold pieces, of one dollar and two-fifty denominations, and the letter said this purse and the money had been in the family at least four generations, and the original owner had left it to be passed down and kept until a dire necessity arose.

"The time has come," said the letter, "when I consider a dire necessity here. The money is, therefore, given for the cause of Christian education."

"That," said Mr. McGill, "represents true sacrifice and a true vision of what our church needs. I only wish every Presbyterian in Kentucky could see the cause as did this one."

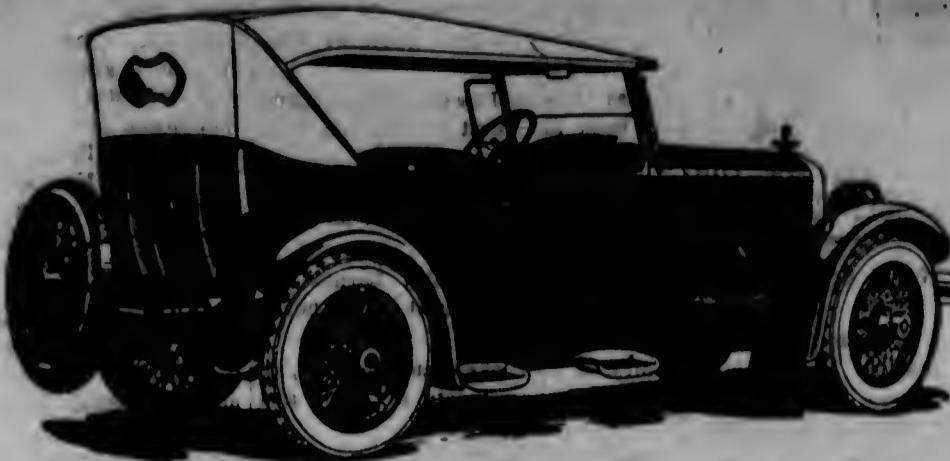

We are as far from being a prude as Pussyfoot Johnson is from harboring American principles under his hat, but the wild display of nude women in current magazines and the daily newspapers do not form the best intellectual food for young girls and growing boys.

A thought for today—Love your neighbor as yourself and he'll borrow your lawn mower and forget to return it.

We know of some men who have not had an idea in 27 years, yet they are called "good party men."

HOW TO SAFEGUARD PUBLIC AGAINST SPOILED CANNED FOOD

Food dealers may safeguard the public against unwholesome foods by making careful inspections of all lots received before they are offered for sale, says the Bureau of Chemistry of the United States Department of Agriculture. Although the food-canning industry is now so well developed that most of the products put up in this way are safe and good, the safety of the consumer may be still further increased if the retailer keeps in mind the following suggestions:

Inspect every container when you open the case.

No "swell," "springer," "flipper" or "leaker" should be accepted or sold by you. In glass, examine the cover and the seam, inspect the contents for signs of spoilage. Do not tolerate any spoiled product upon your shelves.

If a lot shows many swells, reject the lot. Do not take the responsibility of sorting a bad lot of cans and selling them apparently good.

You are entitled to demand a well-exhausted pack, every can showing good vacuum, with clean and bright metal.

Your customers are entitled to the same protection. Even a trace of swell should prevent the sale of a can to any customer.

No spoiled can should be reprocessed.

The removal of every container showing a sign of swell will go a long way toward preventing food poisoning.

Rigorous withdrawal of all packs showing extensive spoilage is imperative.

One man in town is all puffed up and will hardly speak to his friends. Last week he met a friend he had not seen for twenty-two years and was recognized by the friend, who said he did not look a day older than he did the last time they met.

Judge Rufus, you have heard the charges against you. Guilty or not guilty? Rufus—Ah 'fuses to ansah, on de ground Ah mought incinerate mahself.

AULD LANG SYNE

(From "Arkansas Thomas Cat")

Gone are days—oh, cruel time's flight,

When men, like thomas cats, roamed

And nobody cared in the old home town

Whether the sun came up or the moon went down.

Gone are the days when we played the ghost

And drank to each stranger a welcome toast;

When the sky was the limit, unheard of the "lid."

And if you hadn't the money the other man did.

How sadly neglected the once noted spot

Where we laid the remains of the pilgrims we shot.

Or carelessly carved when they made an attack

On our system of shuffled dealing or the pack;

There have been changes—yes, you tell 'em, boy,

For rust has encrusted the fountains of joy.

Where once spun the wheels and our fortunes would ebb

The spider's now spinning his canker web.

Where the whimsical gunmen once made the hills ring

In his playful digression the whip-poor-wills sing.

But the pleasure of dreaming is left to us yet,

So we'll dream of the past and the present forget.

Philadelphia has decided not to send the Liberty Bell to Chicago. Oh, well, it doesn't matter; the majority of the citizens there never heard of it, anyway.

One newspaper wants to know what has become of the man who, when he wanted to swear, said, "Oh, doggone my fool picture!" We guess he nowadays expresses himself like the ladies, "dam."

Something to cheer up over—Only one person in every 300,000 is hit by lightning.

KEEN INTEREST SHOWN IN EDUCATIONAL FARM FILMS

Returns from a questionnaire on motion pictures, sent to some 3,000 extension agents by the United States Department of Agriculture, indicate that county agents and other extension workers, in general, are keenly interested in educational pictures. Of 362 agents reporting, 215 are in favor of using motion pictures in their work, 12 opposed to them, and 145 noncommittal.

About one-third of the agents reporting say they use motion pictures, and about one-half of those who use pictures have had experience with portable projectors. Only eight per cent of those who use portable projectors have found them unsatisfactory.

"There is a strong demand for more films on livestock subjects, club work, soil improvement and co-operative marketing."

Many agents ask for "more fun" or "more human interest" in educational films, and there is considerable complaint of slow distribution. This last objection the department hopes will be met eventually by the establishment of adequate state distributing centers.

BURLEY POOL ELECTION DATES IN SEPTEMBER

Saturday, September 2—Mass meeting at courthouse in each burley county to nominate candidates for delegates; twice as many to be nominated as county is entitled to in convention.

Saturday, September 16—Election of county delegates at elections held in courthouses, voting to be by ballot and on official ballot only. Voter may vote in person or send his ballot in by another person or by mail.

Monday, September 18—Election of district directors by delegates elected September 16. Meetings for election of directors being held in that county of each district which delivered most tobacco of 1921 crop to association, in cases in which district contains more than one county.

Officers to be appointed at mass meetings September 2 who will conduct the election of delegates September 16. Official ballots enough for election and more, to be sent to these officers in ample time for election.

Every grower of tobacco who is a member of the association, whether old or new, entitled to one vote, whether he grows one acre or one thousand acres.

American Legion News

Col. Charles R. Forbes, director of the United States Veterans' Bureau, has chosen two more sites for veterans' hospitals. With the selection of St. Cloud, Minn., as one of them it is believed that Minnesota and nearby sick and wounded veterans will be well taken care of. The lack of hospitals in Minnesota caused the American Legion to collect a fund of its own and start building a hospital at Rochester. This hospital will take care of between 250 and 350 mental cases among service men. The legion's hospital, which will be operated in connection with the Mayo Clinic, will look after surgical and general cases. Director Forbes also announced that he has decided against the Great Lakes naval training station as the site for a Michigan hospital for mental cases. Instead $1,500,000 will be spent for a sanatorium at Camp Custer. The Michigan hospital will be of 500 beds capacity.

As far as can be learned no further announcement has been made regarding the establishment of a mental hospital in New York state. The New York legion has just opened its own camp in the Adirondacks for the care of tubercular ex-service men. Several hundred of these diseased veterans are being housed, fed and doctored by the service men's organization. Urgent need, according to published statements, exists in the Empire state for the quick erection of a hospital for mental cases. New York, western Pennsylvania and certain sections of the west are said to be hard hit by the number of mentally unbalanced veterans for which these sections have to provide accommodations.

Canned vegetables, jams, potatoes, other foods and all sorts of camp equipment is requested by the New York American Legion which has recently opened its Adirondacks camp for tubercular world war veterans. The service men paid $85,000 for the site and have expended many more thousands on equipment in an effort to make inroads into the rapidly increasing ranks of veterans who are suffering with the disease.

The intimation of the United States

Current Business Conditions

By GEORGE E. ROBERTS

(From the Monthly Bulletin for August, Issued by The National City Bank of New York.)

THE leading topics of interest in the past month have been the crops and the strike. The crops have come along finely. The wheat crop is fully as large as last year, the corn crop promises to be around 3,000,000,000 bushels and other food and feed crops are good. The amount of dairy products going into storage is larger than last year. Altogether, the cost of living so far as foodstuffs are concerned promises to be about the same basis for the coming year as for the past. The cotton crop, however, is disappointing and likely to be short of the world's needs. The tendency of clothing materials is now upward, but manufacturing costs are slightly lower than last year.

The improvement in industry has proceeded so far that the amount of enforced unemployment is scarcely more than in any time of moderate prosperity; but the pending strike has not only stopped the earnings of the strikers but are beginning to cause unemployment and losses in other quarters. President Harding has been active in his efforts to settle both the big strikes without harsh or unusual measures. He proposed for the coal industry that the miners return to work immediately at the scale of wages being paid when the strike began, this situation to last until a public commission to be appointed by him, could render a decision upon wages; the commission later to make a thorough investigation of the industry, looking to the development of a permanent policy for the preservation of peace and wholesome working conditions. The miners rejected the proposal.

The President has also made a proposal for the settlement of the railroad strike, but at this writing the outcome is undetermined.

With these strikes in industries that are vital to the public welfare out of the way, the outlook is good for fall business, although it cannot be said that a complete and equitable readjustment of wages and prices has taken place. Industrial costs, in which fuel and transportation are leading factors are too high for the prices of farm products and raw materials generally, and a full measure of prosperity cannot be realized while this remains the case.

It goes without saying that the two strikes are a very grave menace to the public welfare. The industries cannot run without coal and transportation service. Unless a settlement is reached, industry will close down, wages will stop everybody goes through the streets more freely because of them. What is included in the right to strike? The right to quit work itself is not questioned. The President has said that the Government will compel no man to work against his will. But the activities of the union coal-miners and shopmen go far beyond the peaceful abandonment of their jobs in order to better themselves elsewhere. Their actions and language show that they are engaged in an organized effort to prevent the public from having coal or transportation except upon the conditions laid down by them. Combinations of that kind among any other class of people are against the law. Labor organizations were excepted for the purpose of giving them a stronger position in dealing with employer, but it never was contemplated that they would use this power to the serious injury of the public.

Railroad Labor Act
The statement is made that the railroad companies have set the example of refusing to be bound by the decisions of the Labor Board. The facts are that the companies have taken appeals in certain cases to the courts, on the legal ground that the Board had exceeded its jurisdiction under the law. This is a class of actions frequently brought against a new administrative body, to determine authoritatively the scope of its powers. The employees have the same right to bring such actions as the companies, and in neither event is transportation suspended by such an appeal.

The provisions of the Railroad Act, which give instructions relative to the action of the Board in settling wage disputes are as follows:

In determining the justness and reasonableness of such wages and salaries or working conditions the Board shall, so far as applicable, take into consideration among other relevant circumstances:

(1) The scales of wages paid for similar kinds of work in other industries.

(2) The relation between wages and the cost of living.

(3) The hazards of the employment.

(4) The training and skill required.

(5) The degree of responsibility.

(6) The character and regularity of the employment; and

(7) Inequalities of increase in wages or of treatment, the result of previous wage orders or adjustments.

These cases is not that they contend for what they believe to be their rights, but that they refuse to recognize that other rights are involved, and that all rights are entitled to a hearing together and to adjudication in an orderly manner. Moreover, the matter of first importance is that there shall be a method of settlement that does not interfere with the common services necessary to society.

When it is affirmed that the public interest must be paramount; it does not follow that individual interests are sacrificed. On the contrary individual interests are protected by the maintenance of public authority. That is illustrated by the regulation of traffic in the streets of a crowded city. The regulations are a restraint upon individual freedom in the street, but conditions prevailing in that city during last year's American Legion convention. He discovered that city and police officials of Kansas City had no criticism to make concerning the way in which the 150,000 visiting ex-service men conducted themselves. As proof that the men did nothing distasteful, Superintendent Monony said Kansas City officials would welcome the opportunity to have the organization again choose Kansas City as their convention city. In fact, Kansas City endeavored to have this year's convention held there.

OFF FOR OHIO RACES

Charles W. Bean took to Carthage, Ohio, Saturday, Bessie Montgomery, 2:11 1-2; Peter Bean, 2:17 1-4; Donald Cochran, 2:12 1-2, and Ben Harp, a green trotter by Mainleaf 2:08 3-4, where they will race the coming week. All the horses are in nice condition and it is thought that they will give a good account of themselves at the races. Mr. Bean will race in Ohio and Indiana, then at the state fair at Louisville and later will go into Tennessee and Georgia, returning home about October 5. We hope that he will succeed in bringing home the "bacon," because he has worked hard with his horses and has them in excellent shape. All are good trotters and three of them can trot in 2:12 now on a half-mile track.

COLORED FAIR HUGE SUCCESS

If large crowd, elaborate floral hall exhibits, good music, free attractions stock rings, thrilling race programs and miscellaneous amusements can be considered the chief requisites of a good fair, the second annual fair of the Montgomery County Colored Fair Association was a huge success.

One of the directors of the association gave the following statement to newspaper reporters: "The association wishes to express its sincere thanks to the people of Mt. Sterling in general and to our white friends in particular for their timely assistance in advertising in our catalogue, in prizes for our premium list and in other matters relative to our fair. Special premiums and advertisements were given by many who had no other motive whatever than that the fair be a success. We stand awaiting an opportunity to express in deeds our appreciation for such disinterested service."

SUIT TO FIX DUTIES OF COMMISSION IS LIKELY

A friendly suit to determine the meaning of the word "establish," as used in the act of the 1922 general assembly creating the normal school commission, probably will be instituted at Frankfort, it was said, following the statement of W. S. Wallen, secretary of the commission, who said that the schools might not be established until the 1924 legislature has cleared up most points.

Judge W. T. Fowler, law partner of Judge Ed S. Orear, chairman of the commission, said he regarded a suit the best solution of the problem.

The question is whether the word

"establish" in the law means the commission is merely to select the sites, take title to whatever real estate is given, accept the money contributed, and then turn the property over to the state board of education, or whether the commission must erect buildings, equip them, employ faculty and adopt a course of study before turning them over to the state board.

Attorney General Charles I. Dawson said a few days ago that in his opinion a fair construction of the law would be that the commission should locate the schools, accept the property and erect the buildings, but that the employment of a faculty, the adoption of a course of study and such matters rather would fall under the head of management, which is the function of the state board of education.

Were we authorized to construe this legislative act of 1922, we would say the duties of this commission is to locate, this and nothing more. Such a construction is in keeping with everyday variance of the English speaking and writing of legislation people.
